To fear group think is to fear numbers without order, an entity that doesn't exist and won't last, if it does.

112-112-112

Fear is a dark atmosphere that, falling all else, institutions encourage and inveigh against us.

It is a condition that school and church and state might inadvertently condone when they are searching for answers within a framework of reference, that cast backward in history which may teach and which may also enslave.

Institutions are people or the lengthened shadows of great people who serve well and are imitated for their insight and accomplishment.

Institutions die, like people, and are born, like people, and waver and strengthen, like people. And they err and ossify and stratify and arrest, like people, until they bloody the streets in a religious war, 300 years out of context as in Northern Ireland.

Nations invoke the same Deity against one another when shadows of institutions overlap into war. And institutions of nation and belief collapse in darkness, until new light, new people survive to a new context, a new role, a new order of a larger character.

Great people develop when great events demand or even create them. And they bring forward the new institution or rebuild the old, if it is viable.

Great leaders of history, skilled in war, philosophy and diplomacy, encompass events and peoples with youth and vigor and foresight of unaccountable magnitude. Frederick the Great, a Prussian, was a good friend of Voltaire, the French philosopher. Alexander the Great studied under the Athenian philosophers before conquering the ancient world between Eastern Europe and India.

Great religious movements find leadership of a Ghandi, the Christ, Mohammed, Buddha, divines or mystics of peace and sacrifice and martyrdom whose example is spread and indoctrinated by war.

Nations find a Washington, a Franklin, a Jefferson a Hamilton, an Adams on which history confers great hope for their promise still kept in a declaration. There are many others.

Science finds a Copernicus, a Bacon, an Einstein whenever the ages seem ready to close around us with a dictum that "nothing is new" or things are beyond discovery though with us beyond recorded past.

Music finds a Beethoven and a Bach and a Hanel and Tchaikovsky and Puccini for lyrical and thunderous drama of voice and instrument. And art finds Michelangelo and da Vinci and Van Gogh as inspired and as mad as they were brilliant on canvas.

And the average man finds himself in all these examples, these elements of his soul, and identifies with the beauty and depth of his generation to add his own spark of life and drama and continuity.

And fear is ever looking on, waiting for the example to be extinguished, for a place where the shadows entwine, to bring emotion gushing forth, pell mell the Apocalypse dishing the will to nonresponse except a reflex, a fall to uniform oblivion.

Until, until a light grows and an institution changes, one after another, evolving like the people who found and serve them.

The light is everywhere; only fear blocks it out when institutions fall of the promises we are expected to keep.

Alcoa Plume Is Now Clean, Officials Say

Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works has just put into operation a $1-1/2 million high-energy venturi scrubber system that immediately brought the color of the lignite dryer plume well within State Air Control Board air quality limits. Alcoa officials announced.

The color problem occurred during the lignite drying process. Lignite, when mined, contains about 36% moisture. Most of this moisture must be removed (dried out) before the lignite is charged to the power plant boilers for the generation of electricity needed in the aluminum smelting process.

Attempts to clean up the dryer plume color problem span several years and involve expenditures of large sums of money, the efforts of Alcoa engineers, consultants from Texas A&M University, and environmental control equipment manufacturers.

The new scrubber system has three 600-horsepower fans which draw the dryer effluent through hundreds of feet of rubber lined duct work into a high-energy venturi scrubber chamber.

Inside the chamber, a water-spraying nozzle system takes over, knocking the particulate matter from the dryer effluent

French Travelers Cite Unusual Adventures

Two young teachers from Nancy, France, have collected enough experiences to fill a book on a 1 1/2 month 'hitch-hiking' trip through Canada, the United States and Mexico.

The adventurous travelers are Miss Christine Rouyer and Miss Michelle Roth, both teachers at private schools in France. They were in Cameron this weekend, houseguests of the Kenneth Thweatts who had known Miss Rouyer when they were stationed at Verdun, France. She had visited them here in 1966, but that was a conventional trip across the U.S. by bus.

This summer the journey started with a plane ride from France to New York where they strapped 30 pound packs on their backs, crossed the George Washington Bridge and caught their first ride towards Canada.

Thus began a series of adventures few foreign visitors have experienced. Finding rides seemed no problem for the attractive travelers, although they learned that a cattle truck can be "very hot and very noisy." Most of their drivers were friendly (one even spoke French) and interested in helping them "see America."

Both young women speak excellent English, but professed difficulty understanding "Texan." Where language broke off (particularly in Mexico), their good humor carried them through.

Most nights were spent with friends or relatives of their students. Here they exchanged news from France for a night's lodging. But sometimes they missed connections, and when this happened they simply opened their bedrolls in the most protected place available.

Unforgettable experiences would certainly include:

A late arrival in Niagara Falls where they found the YWCA closed and were directed to a City Mission house;

A New Jersey patrolman who warned that hitch-hiking was illegal in that state, but learning they were vacationing teachers from France, gave them a ride to the next state line;

A missed connection in Syracuse, New York, that left them with no place to stay. A sympathetic driver loaned them his apartment for the night while he moved out to stay with a friend;

A rainy night in Jacksonville, Tenn. when they spread their sleeping rolls in a church doorway and the next morning dried their damp back packs on the church steps and washed hands and face in the garden sprinkler.

They would advise other travelers:

- 1) Not to sleep in a public restroom where vending machines and electric hand-dryers operate all night.
- 2) Allow lots of time when traveling by bus in Mexico.

One missed bus in a small Mexican town left the girls with an overnight wait and no place to sleep. Undaunted they spread their bedrolls on the station bench but the astonished station manager called for the local police.

"We were glad to go with the policeman because we thought even if he put us in jail we would have a bed to sleep on," Miss Rouyer relates. Instead, the official took them to a police yard and told them they could sleep in their bedrolls on the ground. After a sleepless night caused by "many mosquitoes" and a constant parade of curious townspeople, police escorted the travelers back to the station in time for the morning bus.

After some sightseeing in New Orleans and Washington, D. C. the young teachers will return to the more orderly life of a classroom, possibly collaboration on a book, and the beginning of an exchange of letters between Miss Rouyer's second grade students in France and Mrs. Thweatt's second grade students in Cameron.

New State Law Will Affect Bicycle Riders

Bicycle riders, starting August 29, will be subject to the same rights and duties as motorists on Texas streets and highways.

Cameron Police Chief Felipe Martinez, calling attention to Senate Bill 183 passed by the 62nd legislature, warned that from now on parents or guardians "shall not authorize or knowingly permit any child to violate the provisions of this act."

The new bicycle law, effective August 29, says only one person may ride on a bicycle with one seat, and outlaws "clinging to vehicles" while riding bicycles, coasters, roller skates, or sleds of any type.

Another requirement orders that bicycles remain at all times on the right-hand side of the road, just as autos do, and that "wherever a usable path for bicycles has been provided adjacent to a roadway, riders shall use such path and not the roadway."

The law also states that bicycle riders may not carry packages, bundles or other articles which prevent the drivers from keeping at least one hand on a handlebar.

Bicycles used during night-time hours must now be equipped with a front lamp which emits a white light visible from at least 500 feet, and with a red reflector on the rear, one approved by the Department of Public Safety.

Final section of the law requires a brake "enabling the operator to make the wheels skid on dry, level, clean pavement."

Martinez warned that the new law pertaining to bicycles will be enforced in Cameron, and urged cooperation by all riders and parents.

The Yoemen will have their first scrimmage of the season with Belton Friday night on Yoe Field. The B team scrimmage will start at 7 p.m. and the varsity scrimmage will follow.

Thomas Explains 'Freeze'

"As of Sunday, August 15, we are in a whole new ball game as far as economics in the United States and the world is concerned," Hilliard Thomas told Cameron Noon Lions Monday. "In a very bold and drastic move the President set the rules of the game and asked all participants to abide by the new rules."

Thomas, president of Citizens National Bank, was referring to President Nixon's 90 day freeze on wages and prices, tax cuts, import surcharge, and curtailment of federal spending.

Thomas explained that behind the

Officials Pay Equalization In County Budget

Salary increases for some county officials will be included in the proposed budget presented in an open meeting at the Milam County Courthouse August 31. County Judge O. B. Harden said the increases had been made to "equalize" officials salaries.

He said the county officials salary raise and county employees raise, which was approved this month, would be the only substantial changes in the new budget.

Proposed changes are to raise the sheriff's salary from $8,100 to $8,500, the salaries of county tax assessor-collector, county attorney and county clerk from $7,100 to $7,500, county treasurer to $4,800, district clerk to $6,600 and county commissioners from $6,100 to $7,000.

Regional Blood Bank 'Counting On Cameron'

The Central Texas Red Cross Blood Center is "counting on Cameron to do its share and then some" when the bloodmobile makes its visit Monday, August 30.

William M. Probes, administrator of the center at Waco, said Tuesday, "We are facing the Labor Day weekend with stores of blood way below what they should be and we are hoping Cameron people will do their best to help build up our supply."

Probes said the center had just 85 units of blood on hand where normal level is 200 units. He noted that area hospitals have been denied requests for reserve units of blood due to the low level at the center.

He added that the summer months bring more accidents requiring more blood, and many donors are on vacation, adding to the shortage. Much elective surgery is scheduled for summer months, with a resulting increase in blood demands.

Probes complimented Cameron donors on their generosity. "Cameron does an outstanding job in its blood program," he said, "and it has one of the best program chapters in the region."

The bloodmobile will be at Methodist Fellowship Hall Monday from 1 until 7 p.m.

Eighteen to 21 year olds are reminded that they no longer need parents consent to be blood donors.

Child Care Center To Open January 1

A child care center, more than 2 years in the planning, will open January 1 with operating funds approved by the Cameron United Fund and the State Welfare Department.

Alvis Coleman, president of the center's board of directors, said the center would care for 20 pre-school children. "Our goal is to free mothers for employment whose families are existing on a poverty level, and to provide care for children presently being left alone while their mother is at work."

The child care center will be located in a home at 3rd and Travis owned by the First United Methodist Church. Present plans are to employ an administrator and two assistants. Coleman said the center would probably be open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., "but these hours might fluctuate according to need."

A child care center was first proposed by the Cameron Ministerial Association, but several attempts to start operation faltered because of lack of funds. Coleman said that Roy Boutwell, area welfare director, had acted as an advisor during the past year and had been a key factor in getting the center funded.

Center directors conducted a survey to determine the need for child care in Cameron. "We know from the survey that the center's limit of 20 children will only relieve the need," Coleman said. "But we hope to expand in the future."

Basic facilities for the center have been approved by Welfare Department officials, but play equipment must be added before the January opening. Coleman said a committee has been looking at playground equipment and hoped to have it built locally.

"The local Urban Renewal Agency gave us a terrific boost with the donation of much needed tables and racks," Coleman said.

The Cameron Noon Lions Club agreed Monday to act as financial agent for the center, depositing funds for the center with the state. Coleman explained that the center would put in 30 percent of the operating capital and the state would match this with 70 percent.

Charges for child care will be determined by the family income. Coleman said when income allowed a family to employ a baby sitter they would not be accepted at the center. "It is the people caught in poverty that we want to help," he said. "We are trying to help people help themselves."

Child care center directors are: Coleman, J. E. Lafferty, vice president, John B. Henderson, Jr., secretary, Bill Horning, treasurer, Sister Aloysius, Delbert Burlison, Felipe Martinez, Mrs. Willie Jean Henderson, Mrs. Bobby Looney and Mrs. Ed Laywell.

Open House To Honor J. D. Moore, Mrs. Sue McDaniel

The Milam County Extension staff will hold open house all day Friday, August 27 to honor J. D. Moore and Mrs. Sue McDaniel.

Moore has been the County Agent in Milam County for the past 22 years and Mrs. McDaniel has served as extension office secretary for 17 years.

They both will be retiring effective September 1.

Everyone is invited to the post office, in the basement of the Post Office, to have a cup of coffee and wish them well.

Workshop Panel Views Drugs

"Kids hear 'don't, don't, don't' so much that when they get a chance to do they really do!" Nina Mae Green, Yoe High student summed up reasons why students may try drugs or alcohol for "kicks."

Nina was one member of a panel speaking during a drug education workshop held for Cameron teachers this week. The panel also included Mrs. Louis Elley, past PTA president; Rev. Alvis Coleman, local minister; and Edward Schiller, Cameron druggist.

In commenting on the student's view of drug education, Nina told the teachers "you have more influence than you think," and went on to say that next to parents, the student would probably want to discuss their problems with a teacher who would listen.

She said that curiosity was the big element in young people trying drugs, and also the desire to be "in" with the crowd.

Mrs. Elley said parents are the ones who need education in drugs, so they can realize the dangers before their children try them.

Parents' example is also a factor, she explained. "When children see their parents taking pills, they think it's alright to try them too," she said.

Parents concern and care about where their children are and what they are doing are also vital, she said.

Schiller told the teachers that any drug problem in Cameron is still "slight" and explained some of the precautions druggists take to keep drugs in their proper usage.

One of druggists' biggest problems is in the sale of cough syrups containing codeine and anti-diarrhea preparations containing paregoric.

He said that as of August 1, druggists must keep a record of purchases of the medicines. They may not be sold to persons under 18 and identification may be required. He said some people go from one town to another to buy drugs in large amounts, with prescriptions made out to different names.

Rev. Coleman stressed that drugs may be used as a "crutch" and that teachers could help by just listening to students with problems who need help in overcoming the problems.

Thanks, Belton.....

How good is Cameron's planning and leadership?

Ask Belton and Copperas Cove leadership, for a start.

For the second time within a year, men from a community west of Cameron, this time Belton, came to Cameron to see how downtown urban renewal was done and how industrial development occurred.

We are not the only community to do things along these lines, but it is encouraging for them to compliment us with their questions.

Objective tests of what is going on here, beyond the subjective criticisms prevalent in the past, show that Cameron has youth, competence, judgment and whatever other attributes, including tenacity, that other communities find in us during these question and answer periods.

Thanks Belton, for honoring a neighboring community of similar size. We don't know all the answers, and who does, but we try to keep up.

Presaging 1984?...

Governor Smith's defiance of the Nixon wage-price-rent freeze has gone against public opinion in Texas and brought a Texas attorney-general ruling which says the state will comply with the federal directive.

Two other state governors noted they too had teacher or public employee raise commitments scheduled in the next few weeks following the freeze policy, but they acknowledged the need to cool the heated spiral of inflation.

In effect, no one followed the Governor's position, except perhaps teachers' spokesmen.

Pique showed through separate interviews of the Governor on CBS' "Face the Nation" and of Treasury Secretary Connally, each about the other man. To paraphrase, Connally first said he was "never impressed by the Governor" and Smith said Sunday he was not "impressed with Secretary Connally's knowledge of state government."

Governor Smith wanted a court test of his stand, based on the fact Texas had approved a teacher raise last spring, scheduled to go into effect September 1. The Governor said the President in one sentence had abrogated the state law of Texas.

By this reasoning, President Nixon abrogated a lot of law in the "several states", but the action to curb rampant inflation took precedence in the public view. It was a reversal of Nixon policy stated as recently as June.

The facts were that no one was coping with the spiral which ate about 6 percent annually into everyone's income. The White House acted.

Unfortunately, voluntary control of people's spending was not working. All this seems to say we somehow expect an authority we can bridge and buck against, but accept. Of this kind of necessity, it presages Orwell's 1984.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

EXPERT'S VIEW OF "VIETNAMIZATION"

REP. JOHN H. TERRY (N.Y.) "... Sir Robert Thompson recently wrote an article in the Daily Telegraph of London... expressing the opinion that "Vietnamization" has succeeded and that the military situation is indeed good. Sir Robert is considered to be one of the world's leading experts on insurgency, has visited Vietnam many times, and recently completed a survey of South Vietnam's internal security for President Nixon's National Security Council. He was also responsible for security during Great Britain's successful operations against Communist insurgents in Malaysia. I commend this article to the attention of my colleagues." (Excerpts follow:)

With the anti-war debate in the United States now focusing on a target date for the withdrawal of troops, the issue of prisoners, the Calley and other trials, the drug traffic, corruption and so on, the war situation itself is becoming obscured. Yet this still remains the overriding factor influencing events.

The fact alone that 500,000 American troops have been withdrawn without the country falling apart is itself evidence of the general improvement and of the success of pacification and "Vietnamization."

The Viet-Cong insurgency within the South has now become a minor threat. An interesting feature of its weakness is, for example, the rarity of terrorist incidents in Saigon itself. This teeming city of nearly four million people, with its maze of alleys and canals, should be an urban guerrilla's paradise, but it is safer at night than most American cities.

The loss of border sanctuaries in Cambodia and of Kampot-Som (Sihanoukville) as its major supply port, with the brave resistance of the Cambodians, has almost eliminated the threat to Saigon and the Mekong Delta from the Cambodian border.

While not a howling success, the recent operation in Laos achieved its main objectives and was by no means the disaster which some depicted. The trails and pipeline were disrupted during what should have been their peak operating period before the monsoon. Vast quantities of supplies were destroyed and the casualty figures were at least three to one in South Vietnam's favor.

If progress within the South continues over the next 18 months as it should, thereby releasing yet more ARVN forces for cross-border operations, there is every chance that South Vietnam will be able to contain the major threat indefinitely, even though North Vietnam continues to receive substantial Russian and Chinese aid.

The war is unlikely to be lost militarily in Vietnam. It can only be lost politically in the United States.

Smith Defies Wage Freeze, Accepts 'Full Responsibility'

By Bill Boykin

Texas became one of the first states to defy President Nixon's wage freeze order as it applies to public employees and school teachers.

Gov. Preston Smith, after three days of conflicting reports, issued a proclamation instructing agency heads to ignore the August 15 order against pay raises for teachers and state workers. Raises were authorized by the Legislature long ago and funds appropriated for the new budget beginning September 1.

U. S. Office of Emergency Preparedness official first informed the Governor's office that the freeze did not apply to local and state government employees and teachers.

But 24 hours later, the President's Cost of Living Council headed by former Texas Gov. John Connally, now U.S. Treasury Secretary, reversed this position. Council held that state and local government workers were subject to the 90-day freeze, and teachers could get raises only if their contract periods began before August 15.

Texas officials had taken the stand that the law authorizing present salary levels for 95,000 state employees and 138,000 teachers expires August 31, and they had no authority but to put new wage scales ordered by the Legislature into effect after that.

"I am refusing to obey the President's order to scrap our appropriations bill, which was signed into law months ago," said Smith. "Texas is going to obey the laws of the 62nd Legislature."

In his official proclamation, the Governor accepted "full responsibility" for his order of federal defiance.

Governor further blasted the federal government for issuing "two conflicting sets of orders on every vital issue."

Smith's directive means the 6.8 per cent raise for state employees will go into effect September 1, and teachers will get their long-range increase approved by the Legislature two years ago.

At the same time, tax and college tuition raises also will go into effect. Scheduled auto insurance rate boost has been postponed until after the 90-day freeze, as has consideration of freight rate increases.

"SCANDAL" HEARINGS HELD

House General Investigating Committee held the opening round in its hearings on stock-loan scandals involving high state officials.

Frank W. Sharp, onetime head of Sharpstown State Bank and National Bankers Life Insurance Company, was the star witness. He told Committee members he and House Speaker Gus Mutscher had a "tacit understanding" that there was a link between stock purchases in NBL by the speaker and passage of banking bills favored by Sharp in 1969.

Speaker Mutscher borrowed money from the Sharpstown Bank to buy the stock, as did a few other state officials including Governor Smith.

Sharp denied, however, he ever gave anything of value to a state official in exchange for a political favor.

Former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, appearing before the Committee, called the federal Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of stock-loan transactions a Republican-inspired political "hatchet job."

OIL ALLOWABLE CUT

For the fifth month running, Texas Railroad Commission ordered a reduction in statewide oil allowable, fixing it at 65.1 per cent of potential for September. Figure is the lowest since August, 1970, when it dropped to 62.9 per cent.

September allowable, down slightly from 66.2 per cent for August, will permit a 3,350,493 barrel-per-day production maximum flow, 45,264 less than the present top.

Nominations by crude oil buyers for next month totalled 3,218,430 barrels daily. That is 24,032 less than August figures.

Only one major producer, Shell, asked more oil in September. Ten asked for the same allowable, and three wanted less.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

In these days of price freezes I couldn't help but get interested in a bill approved by the United States Senate a couple of weeks even before any freeze was announced.

In a bill to control and limit spending by candidates, some of whom spend ten to twenty times as much getting elected as the office pays, the Senate voted a ceiling of 10 cents per voter on the amount a candidate for any Federal office can spend on any kind of advertising.

I don't know that the Senate intended it this way, but it looks to me like they're saying my vote is not worth more than a dime, or if you want to figure it another way, mine is worth say 2 cents and yours could be inflated to 18 cents. Either way, they'd still be within the 10-cent-per-voter limit.

On the whole, I suppose this is a good bill, but it doesn't go far enough.

I'd like to add an amendment. Not only should a candidate not be allowed to spend more than 10 cents a vote to get elected, but once elected should himself not be paid more than 10 cents for his vote. It's not only the cost of electing somebody that's high, it's also the cost of keeping him on your side after he's in.

Under my amendment to the Senate bill, no voter would be allowed to spend more than 10 cents per office-holder to influence any legislation. You could call it an attack on the inflationary costs of government.

Under this system, about all any tycoon wanting to entertain a Congressman could do is buy him a package of chewing gum.

Speaking of money, I noted that a lot of foreign countries are up in arms over the value of the dollar after the President's gold-buying announcement.

You reckon they're so mad they'll now insist all foreign aid from us has to be paid in their own money, Japan in yens, Germany in marks, England in pounds, France in francs, and the South Sea Islands in coconut shells?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Double Indemnity

Harvey, the "other man" in a domestic triangle, heard some alarming news: the woman's husband had bought a gun and was spoiling for trouble. No coward, Harvey decided to confront his rival face-to-face.

It was a fatal mistake. Words led to bullets and Harvey was shot dead.

In due course, his relatives tried to collect on his $10,000 life insurance policy. They claimed not only the $10,000 but also an extra $10,000 as "double indemnity," payable in case of accidental death.

However, a court denied the extra $10,000, saying Harvey's death was not really an accident at all. The court said he was well aware, when he sought out the angry husband, that he had an excellent chance of being killed.

Double indemnity for accidental death is a common feature in life insurance policies. But it is not payable if the victim had recklessly courted danger.

This is true even if what he did was simply in the name of fun. Thus, double indemnity was denied to the family of a young man slain in a game of "William Tell." In a spirit of playfulness, he had allowed a friend to shoot at a tin can on top of his head.

"One who volunteers his head for such an experience," said the judge, "must anticipate injury."

Suppose the act was dangerous, but the danger was not apparent at the time. Then, as a rule, the death would still be considered accidental. For example:

A motorist skidded into a ditch. While waiting for a tow truck, he ran the motor to keep his heater going. What he failed to realize was that the end of the exhaust pipe was trapped in a mud puddle, causing deadly carbon monoxide gas to seep into the car. Result: he was dead by the time the tow truck arrived.

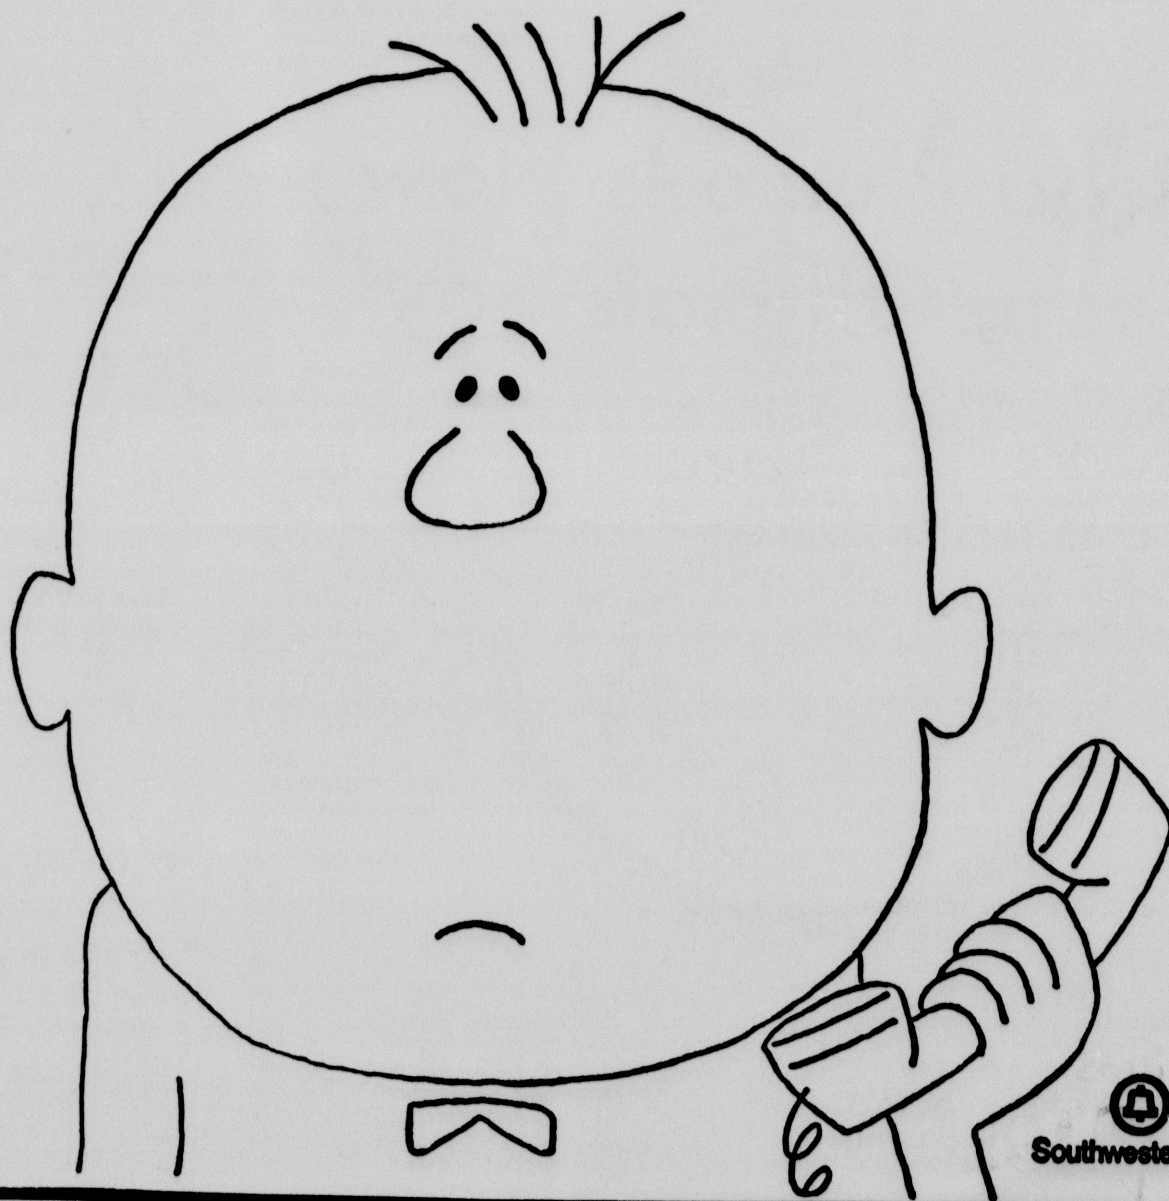

Was this accidental? Yes, ruled a court, awarding double indemnity to the victim's family. The court said his conduct could fairly be judged only by what he knew at the time, not by the wisdom of hindsight.

County Agent's Notes

Special Provisions For Herbicides

By J. D. Moore
Milam County Agent

The following special provisions will apply to Milam, Bell, and Williamson counties in the use of 2,4-D as a part of cotton defoliation on the control of pasture weeds.

"Applications of hormone-type herbicides as defoliants may be made without restrictions during the period August 25th to November 30th of each year, except in Williamson County which will be from August 25th to October 31st of each year." This provision is taken from Herbicide Regulations State Department of Agriculture, Austin, Texas.

Special provisions for the ground application of Dicamba (Banel D). All persons must comply with the Herbicide Law and these regulations in the use and sale of Dicamba, except when used under the following provisions:

When using boomtype ground spray equipment with nozzle height not exceeding 24 inches and maximum pressure not exceeding 20 lbs per square inch, applications may be made within the 30 to 60 feet of susceptible crops when the wind velocity does not exceed 5 to 10 miles per hour.

Banel D is an effective brush and hard-to-kill weed control chemical when used with discretion.

Underground Hot Springs May Furnish New Power

By William Parry

EL CENTRO, Calif. Scientists at the University of California believe that underground hot springs in Imperial Valley near the Mexican border could generate enough electricity to serve the whole of the south western United States for more than 50 years.

Ecologists have encouraged the California state legislature to exploit the "hot oceans" as rapidly as possible as they could provide a clean source of power at a time when most American cities are fighting increasing air pollution.

Tsvi Meidav, a member of the university research team which conducted a five-year survey of the area, says the discovery has excited geologists throughout the world.

His team has recommended development of the vast area of geothermal deposits which have temperatures running from 600 to 800 degrees.

Scientists say that geothermal deposits underlie the whole North American continent from Mississippi to the Pacific coast, but in most areas are too deep to exploit.

However, in southern California the deposits have been found only 1,500 feet below the ground.

Already just south of the border in Mexico the government has invested 14 million in exploiting a geothermal field at Cerro Prieto near Mexicali.

REAP Program Focuses On Rural Environment

Re-building a quality environment is an increasing concern of both urban and rural people.

The Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) has as its major purpose the improvement of the quality of life for all people. This improvement is accomplished through a cost-sharing program with farmers and ranchers to prevent or abate agriculture-related pollution of water, land and air, and to conserve agricultural soil, water, woodland, and wildlife resources.

REAP encourages farmers to undertake projects they could not -- or would not -- carry out without cost-sharing assistance.

While farmers and ranchers are the primary participants in REAP practices, everyone receives benefits from the program. Naturally, the local community where the practices are carried out benefits the most.

Not just the farmer himself and his farm neighbors, but the whole community gets a boost from the pollution-abatement and conservation practices which the farmer undertakes.

For all persons interested in helping rebuild a quality environment, a leaflet on the role of the Rural Environmental Assistance Program is available through the Milam County ASCS Office.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service administers REAP through County ASC Committees elected by farmers and ranchers in the county.

Each REAP practice approved by the ASC County Committee must have related soil and water benefits.

DAIRY TEAM 5th AT BRENHAM

The Milam County 4-H Dairy Judging Team won 5th place at the South Texas District Jersey Show and judging contest at Brenham, August 18.

Team members are Daniel Richardson, Clyde Jistel, and Donald Fleming.

The team competed against a dozen other teams and individuals in the all-Jersey judging contest. The team judged 4 classes and compiled a team score of 411.

Top individual for the team was Donald Fleming with a score of 160.

MUECK TO NATIONAL
Martin Mueck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Mueck of Cameron will represent Milam County at the Western National Tractor Operators contest at Phoenix, Arizona on October 30 through November 2.

The all-expense paid trip was awarded to Martin as he was named the State 4-H winner in the same contest.

Martin will compete against other winners from other states in an effort to capture the National title. Joe P. Mueck is Martin's coach.

He worked for a year in Hamilton, training as a soil conservationist.

FOOD FOR THE MIND.

A limited-time offer from one of the most recognized names in encyclopedias.
During the next few weeks, we're offering the complete 25-volume set of the Funk & Wagnalls Encyclopedia. Besides being one of the world's most popular encyclopedias, it sells for one of the world's most popular prices. You can buy a volume a week for only $1.89 each. And the first volume for the introductory price of a quarter.

But don't let the low price scare you off. The Funk & Wagnalls is a full-fledged encyclopedia researched and written by hundreds of scholars and Nobel Prizewinners. It has over 10,000 pages and 5,000 illustrations -- including a full color World Atlas. It's durably-bound to resist the ravages of time and children. It's written in clear, simple English. (It isn't designed for scholars or children; it's designed for families. Children can use it to help with schoolwork, and parents can use it to help keep up with children.) And it covers over 30,000 subjects -- or about as many as encyclopedias that cost hundreds of dollars more.

But unlike other good encyclopedias, which are sold through salesmen, the Funk & Wagnalls is available only through supermarkets. That way, you don't have to pay the cost of somebody to sell it to you. Which means that to own a good encyclopedia, you no longer have to be rich. You just have to be in the right place (ours) at the right time (now).

Manatee Is No Mermaid But Appetite Helps Man

A manatee has a face only a mother could love and a figure only a sailor too long out of port could confuse with a mermaid.

The ungainly aquatic mammal has no ears, blubbery cleft lips, a bristly mustache, and sunken eyes. But its sparsely haired, bulbous body does taper to a pancake tail, giving rise to the mermaid legend.

No less a sailor than Christopher Columbus reported he had seen a manatee/mermaid in the New World, but the admiral conceded that "they were not as beautiful as they are painted though they had something like the human face."

COUSIN OF ELEPHANT

These distant cousins of the elephant range in length from 8 to 15 feet and weigh from 500 to 1,200 pounds, the National Geographic Society says. Understandably, they have voracious vegetarian appetites.

Manatees manage to survive in the rivers of West Africa, Central and South America, Caribbean islands and Florida, but man's encroachments endanger them.

The animals have been hunted and harpooned; manatee steaks are a prized supplement to native diets. Even in Florida, where a poacher risks a $500 fine, manatees occasionally are killed for food or so-called sport.

The Florida building boom is pre-empting wildlife habitats, and pollution already has destroyed the manatee's food supply in several rivers.

Curiously, the manatee's appetite may be its salvation. It thrives on water hyacinths, a pestiferous aquatic plant that chokes clogged Florida canals, and efforts are underway to breed the mammals.

Manatees spend a quarter of the day indiscriminately eating whatever submerged aquatic plants happen to be at hand. They eat more than a pound of vegetation daily for every 10 pounds of body weight.

LIP-SMACKING EATER

They do not, as was once held, use their flippers to guide vegetation to their lips. They don't need to. All a manatee has to do is turn inside out its horrendous lip pads and tuck the food into its mouth with the attached bristles.

Daniel S. Hartman, who studies manatees in Florida under a National Geographic Society grant, swam with them in the warm waters near the source of the Crystal River. He wrote:

"At play, manatees touch muzzle to muzzle in what best can be described as a kiss. This behavior is one fact of a whole repertoire of nuzzles, nibbles, nudges, butts, and embraces. The performance as a whole becomes a serene ballet, a slow-motion ritual of lazy posturing and positionings, twistings and turnings."

Though manatees are shy, Hartman became accepted by some. "A few were so tame that, when soliciting a back scratch, they would hamper my work by rolling directly in front of my mask," he wrote.

Hartman coped bravely with the problem described by one versifier:

"I'd hate to be kissed by a manatee. The prospect's too much for my vanity. Her bristly mustache. Would give me a rash. And destroy my last vestige of sanity."

An Open And Shut Case For Quick, Hearty Meals

It's open and shut case for sandwiches in August and September. Whether you choose to munch an open-face or closed-face sandwich, you'll find them the answer for meals that are quick, hearty, and nutritious.

Every sandwich, of course, starts with bread. A basic food for centuries, bread is one of the least expensive sources of energy, with about 65 calories per average slice. Besides energy, enriched or whole wheat bread contributes other nutrients. Check labels for a listing of ingredients.

Perk sandwiches up with one of the many varieties of bread, buns or rolls available. Choose rye, pumpernickel, French, cheese, garlic, onion, or standard whole wheat and enriched white bread. Also, there are seeded rolls, onion rolls, weiner buns, English muffins, bagels, and biscuits.

For extra convenience, the specialist reminds that sandwiches can be frozen. But, use fillings that freeze well, such as cooked egg yolks; cooked or canned chicken, fish or turkey; cooked or canned meats and dried beef.

On the other hand, remember that hard-cooked egg whites will become tough, raw vegetables will lose their crispness; mayonnaise or salad dressing will separate and soak into the bread. And for chopped fillings, add binders that freeze well and add new flavor interest, such as lemon, orange or pineapple juice, applesauce or dairy sour cream.

When freezing, wrap sandwiches in vapor-proof material, one in each package. Then label the sandwich with the date and type.

Frozen sandwiches will thaw in about two hours, and they should be eaten soon after.

As a final note, it's best not to keep sandwiches frozen longer than two weeks.

Here's a way to rustle up a fresh approach to America's all-time favorite, the sandwich. "Round-Up Sandwich" offers you proof that a hamburger patty need not be round to be a success. This recipe takes an edge off the dog days of summer by sparking summer appetites plus being easy on the cook. Bottled barbecue sauce, one of everyone's favorite summertime ingredients, seasons the taste buds with a bouquet of snappy spices. This ground beef sandwich may feature uniqueness in the shape, but the traditional cheese topping proves just as palate pleasing. All you need add for a hearty meal for big and little buckaroos is your special bean dish and a selection of crisp relishes.

Round-Up Sandwich
1 lb. ground beef
1 cup Kraft Barbecue Sauce
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped onion
8 hot dog buns, split
Velveeta Pasteurized Process Cheese Spread, sliced

Combine meat, green pepper and onion; mix lightly. Shape into patties to fit hot dog buns. Brown patties; add barbecue sauce. Cover; cook 15 minutes. For each sandwich, cover top half of bun with Velveeta slices; broil until Velveeta begins to melt. Place patty on bottom half of bun; serve with top half of bun. 8 sandwiches.

New Italian Divorce Law Has Affected Few Marriages

By Andrew Tarnowski
Reuter Correspondent

ROME
Despite the controversy that surrounded the passing of Italy's first divorce law last winter, surprisingly few people have bothered to apply for decrees so far.

On reason is that the Italian law is almost foolproof as far as "quickie" divorces go -- if you have not been legally separated for at least five years you have no chance.

The only exception to this is if your spouse is mad, serving a life sentence in jail, tries to kill you or commits incest.

While foreigners living in Italy have resigned themselves to going abroad if they want a quick divorce, many Italians have another answer to the problems of an unhappy home.

Between one and three million of them simply move away from their legal spouses and set up housekeeping with new families.

In most cases they live happily in this Roman Catholic country which, up to now, has preferred to tolerate more or less open adultery on a massive scale rather than accept divorce.

When the law was first passed, following bitter battles involving the Vatican and all shades of political opinion, reformers danced in the streets of Rome after the all-night session of Parliament on Dec. 1, 1970, which tion of nearly 55 million, had obtained divorces. The figure was lower than the number of decrees issued in some American states in one week.

By July, seven months after the law took effect, about 4,000 decrees had gone through and applications totalled 51,000. Rumor began circulating that Roman Catholic judges were staging a go-slow to beat the bill.

Some judges even refused to hear cases and the entire civil court of Siena denounced the law as unconstitutional and a breach of the 1929 Concordat with the Vatican, which gave church marriages the force of law in Italy.

Meanwhile, some Catholics are pushing ahead with plans to stage a national referendum next spring to abolish the divorce law.

The referendum battle could be a bitter one, with lay groups and leftwing politicians facing angry Catholics, tacitly backed by the Vatican and urged on by Italy's bishops.

The pro-divorce forces have already started their counter-attack against the religious forces and few Italians seem likely to resist the call of a battle which threatens to reopen old wounds of clerical and anti-clerical intolerance.

Flood warning!

The hurricane season is with us in Texas. And so is the threat of serious floods and costly damage not covered by standard property insurance.

Many Texas counties, cities, towns and villages are now eligible for special flood insurance under the auspices of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the National Flood Insurers Association.

Different programs are available for different areas. Protection is available for homeowners, for tenants, for owners of small businesses. To find out whether you are eligible for this special flood coverage—call any local agent, broker or company licensed to do business in your area.

Opponents Battle Largest Underground Nuclear Test

By Ralph Harris
Reuter Correspondent

WASHINGTON

Conservationists and anti-war groups are fighting a last-ditch battle to stop the largest underground nuclear test ever planned by the United States -- a blast they say can lead to earthquakes, tidal waves and indiscriminate slaughter of wildlife.

The battleground is Amchitka Island, a barren volcanic rock in the Aleutian chain of Alaska. A five-megaton detonation equivalent to five million tons of TNT is scheduled to be set off there in October in a test of the Spartan Anti-Missile Missile.

With an assurance that the fears are not warranted the Atomic Energy Commission (A.E.C.) won an important round on July 20 when the Senate rejected a move to force postponement of the test until after next May 31.

The house later refused to cut an appropriation earmarked for the test.

The issue is now in the courts, as opponents of the test seek a restraining order against the A.E.C. They claim the blast could violate the partial test ban treaty of 1963, as well as damage the environment if it vents radiation into the air and carries it beyond the Soviet border, 700 miles away.

The environmentalists and anti-war forces are led by a newly-formed group called the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility, in which former Republican Senator Charles Goodell of New York plays a prominent role.

The test is known as Cannikin -- the name given a hydrogen device to be buried and exploded in one of the deepest, widest and most expensive holes ever dug in the ground, 6,200 feet deep and eight feet across.

The cost of constructing the site and exploding the device is unofficially estimated at about 120 million dollars.

Critics of Pentagon and A.E.C. spending call it a needless experiment, claiming that the Spartan warhead part of the safe-guard anti-missile system is already obsolete and that the test is a waste of money and resources.

Environmentalists fear it will kill large numbers of sea otters, seals and sea lions in the Bering Sea and will destroy nests of two of the world's rarest birds, the peregrine falcon and the American bald eagle.

Ecologists are frightened because they think Cannikin will release radiation into the sea and cause untold damage not only to the Alaskan salmon industry but to health around the world in the coming years.

They also believe there is a risk that it will bring about earthquakes since Amchitka is in the midst of the Aleutian earthquake chain.

But the A.E.C. has said its critics' fears are unwarranted and that the test will be conducted with risks reduced to the absolute minimum.

It added in a special statement that Cannikin "is a vital part of the U.S. weapons development program" and must be carried out at Amchitka because its regular testing grounds in Nevada are too close to Las Vegas and Salt Lake City to permit the detonation of weapons larger than one or two megatons.

The A.E.C. has given a graphic description of what it expects to happen when the blast goes off. Heat and shock will carve a 200-foot wide cavern in the rock, and expanding gases will rush against the walls with pressure of 15 million pounds per square inch. Swelling the cave to four times its original size.

As the cavern stops growing the main shock wave will reach the surface 6,000 feet and lift the ground directly over the blast about 20 feet into the air.

The shock will raise the ground at least two feet all the way to the shorelines along the Bering Sea and Pacific Ocean.

The shock waves will also move sideways to cliffs, and below the water line. Rockslides will occur where cliff walls are weak, and overpressures of 300 pounds per square inch will reach through the water up to five miles from both shorelines.

The awesome effects of the blast -- including thermal radiation, fission products, x-rays and shock waves -- will give scientists an idea of what would happen if a Spartan warhead went off in outer space.

The Spartan is designed to destroy an oncoming missile in space long before it reaches its target, and the A.E.C. and Pentagon are hopeful that Cannikin will be an adequate substitute for space experiments banned by the nuclear test treaty.

The most publicized point of contention about the test concerns wildlife in an area that has been a preserve for more than 50 years.

The A.E.C. says the blast could harm some of the sea otters swimming off shore when it goes off, but estimates that no more than 20 of the 2,000 estimated to be there will be close enough to die as a result of pressures damaging their lungs.

But Alaskan officials think that more than 40 will be killed, and that numerous others will have their eardrums shattered and die within a week.

The A.E.C. also disputes the scope of potential casualties among wildlife, and denies that the possible escape of radiation after the test is a hazard to human life.

All the radioactive debris produced by the blast will remain sealed in the test cavity for thousands of years, with the possible exception of radioactive tritium, an isotope of hydrogen gas which dissolves instantly in water.

The A.E.C. concedes that there is a remote chance that tritiated water will flow through the rock into the Pacific and the Bering Sea.

The most likely possibility is that the tritium would not reach the sea for 1,000 years but the A.E.C. conceded that there was an unlikely possibility that it could get there in three years.

If so, the tritiated water would flow into the sea at 1,200 times the maximum permissible concentration for drinking water for the next 130 years.

Canada, Russia Agree To Share Fishing Grounds

By J. T. Clarke
Reuter Correspondent

VANCOUVER, B.C.

The Russians are turning Tasu Sound, one of the few sheltered coves on the wild Pacific coast of British Columbia's Queen Charlotte Islands, into one of Western Canada's busiest harbours.

It stems from the signing 18 months ago of a fishing agreement between Canada and the Soviet Union after trouble between fishermen of the two countries.

Russian ocean-going fishing fleets now use the sound, about 500 miles north of Vancouver, as a rendezvous point for mother ships with their smaller, satellite fishing smacks.

During the summer season as many as 16 ships a week have dropped anchor there.

The waters of the sound are deep enough to accommodate the 20,000 ton transports that are used by the Russians as mother ships, and the steep, fjord like mountains cut the fierce north Pacific winds to a minimum.

Before the agreement was signed in Moscow, Canada and Russia almost came to a row over brushes between their fishing boats.

Several Canadian fishermen had complained that the Soviet fleets often swept through their fishing grounds, ripping out gear and sucking up quantities of salmon in their huge nets.

Many Canadian fishermen talked of taking guns with them to the fishing grounds. The Soviet fleets were shadowed by Canadian aircraft and coast guard vessels and at one stage fisheries minister Jack Davis said warships might be called in to protect Canadian fishermen.

Relations between Canada and Russia on the fishing issue have been touchy for several years and Russian boats have been fined for poaching in Canadian waters.

Government officials assured Canadian fishermen that the Russians were taking the ground fish, hake, rather than salmon, but suspicions about Russian intentions persisted. And the denial of entry into British Columbia's ports to re-supply angered the Russians.

But the row was cooled by the agreement which gave the Russians rights to fish in Canadian territorial waters around the Queen Charlotte Islands, but excluded them from a 400-square mile fishing ground in international waters to the south, 25 miles southwest of Vancouver Island.

It also re-opened the ports of Vancouver and Prince Rupert to the Soviets to re-stock with water, fresh vegetables and other supplies.

Canadian fishermen, though still unhappy that the Russians would have fishing rights in Canadian waters, accepted the agreement with good grace.

They seldom fish in the Queen Charlottes anyway, and obtained exclusive rights to one of their own favorite grounds.

The agreement also provided for an exchange of scientific observers and technical information which will probably help both nations improve fishing techniques.

Chinese Looking To Past At Beginning Of New Era

By Ernesto Mendoza
Reuter Correspondent

As China steps into a new era of diplomacy, highlighted by President Nixon's planned visit, its people are looking to the past in efforts to put things in a new perspective.

The revived interest in China's past is evident in Peking reports of archaeological discoveries of tombs dating back to the 11th Century B.C. and rich collections of ancient gold, silver, bronze and jade artifacts.

This is in striking contrast to the early phases of the cultural revolution in 1966 when Red guards were reported to have ravaged museums and homes under Chairman Mao Tse-Tung's orders to destroy the "four olds" -- the old ideas, culture, customs and habits.

Among the finds was the tomb of a Western Han Dynasty prince and his wife which was said to resemble a palace built underground. Their bodies -- now dust -- were encased in jade joined by fine gold wire.

"These relics are of great value for research into ancient China's political and economic conditions, culture and warfare and the friendly contacts between China and foreign countries in different historical periods," the official new China news agency said.

In politics too, the pages of history are being turned -- with important implications for the future of Sino-American relations.

Chairman Mao himself said: "Let the past serve the present." The people of China are told to read and re-read the history of the Chinese communist party as outlined by Peking's three major journals in a 20,000 word editorial celebrating the party's 50th birthday on July 1.

Visitors to China report that Chinese officials, intaking about President Nixon's trip, constantly refer to negotiations in Chungking in 1945 as proof of Chairman Mao's readiness to negotiate.

In these talks, Chairman Mao met the Nationalist Chinese leader, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, in an unsuccessful attempt to avert civil war.

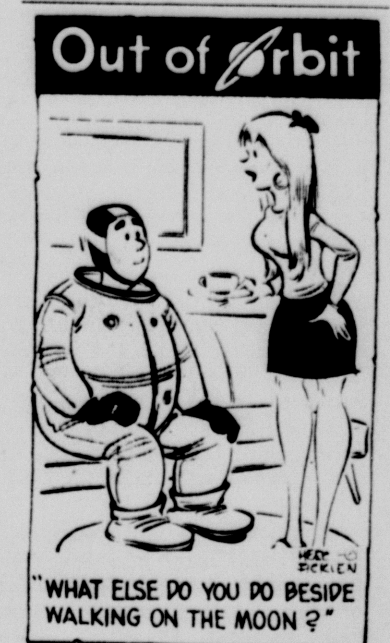

The editorial also mentioned that in 1949 communist forces wiped out eight million Nationalist Chinese troops armed by the United States and "liberated all Chinese territory with the exception of Taiwan Province and a number of sea islands."

The continued existence of Taiwan as a separate state ruled by Generalissimo Chiang is considered a gross insult by Peking.

American writer Edgar Snow, who visited China a few months ago, said the Chinese leaders regard the Taiwan question as part of their "interrupted civil war" with Generalissimo Chiang. "Mao Tse-Tung has pointed out to me that peaceful assimilation of Taiwan is his aim -- reminding me of several cases in the Chinese civil war when other provinces acceded without fighting," he wrote in a magazine article.

Snow, an old friend of Mao, said Peking was likely to be found reasonable in dealing with Taiwan -- perhaps even granting a degree of autonomy to Chiang Kai-Shek if he should wish to remain governor there for his lifetime.

Holland Declares War On Muskrat

By Humphrey Van Loo
Reuter Correspondent

THE HAGUE, Netherlands

Holland has declared war on the muskrat because it is posing a threat to the country's defenses against its traditional enemy the sea.

Originally the muskrat came from North Africa, but it was imported into Europe for the sake of its valuable fur. It soon multiplied rapidly.

According to the Dutch experts who are responsible for protecting the dikes, the muskrat is a major threat. It digs out its home in the river dikes which are a second line of defence against the sea. If this destruction is allowed to continue, the dikes could become useless.

Most of the muskrats now invading Holland originally came from Belgium. The public has been encouraged to catch the animals by offers of reward of $1.50 per tail.

This has provided a valuable form of help for the official rat catchers as well as a source of pocket money for amateurs. An official of the Bonnevacht Catchment Board, Dr. J. Lutjeharms, says that if the muskrats are not stopped in the province of Overijssel, where they are now heavily concentrated, the threat will spread further west through the IJssel Lake and threatens the densely-populated provinces of north and south Holland.

He says the muskrat makes a tunnel in dikes near brooks and rivers. This tunnel is dug in an upwards direction and the actual hole is built above water level. Very often, another tunnel connects the hole with water on the other side of the dike between six and nine feet thick.

These secondary dikes, if extensively undermined by the muskrats could turn a manageable flood into a catastrophe, according to Lutjeharms.

Special campaigns have been organized to inform the public of the appearance and habits of the muskrats which are frequently confused with ordinary rats. The muskrat is larger than the common rat and is not dangerous to humans.

But the row was cooled by the agreement which gave the Rus-

GOD Believes in You...

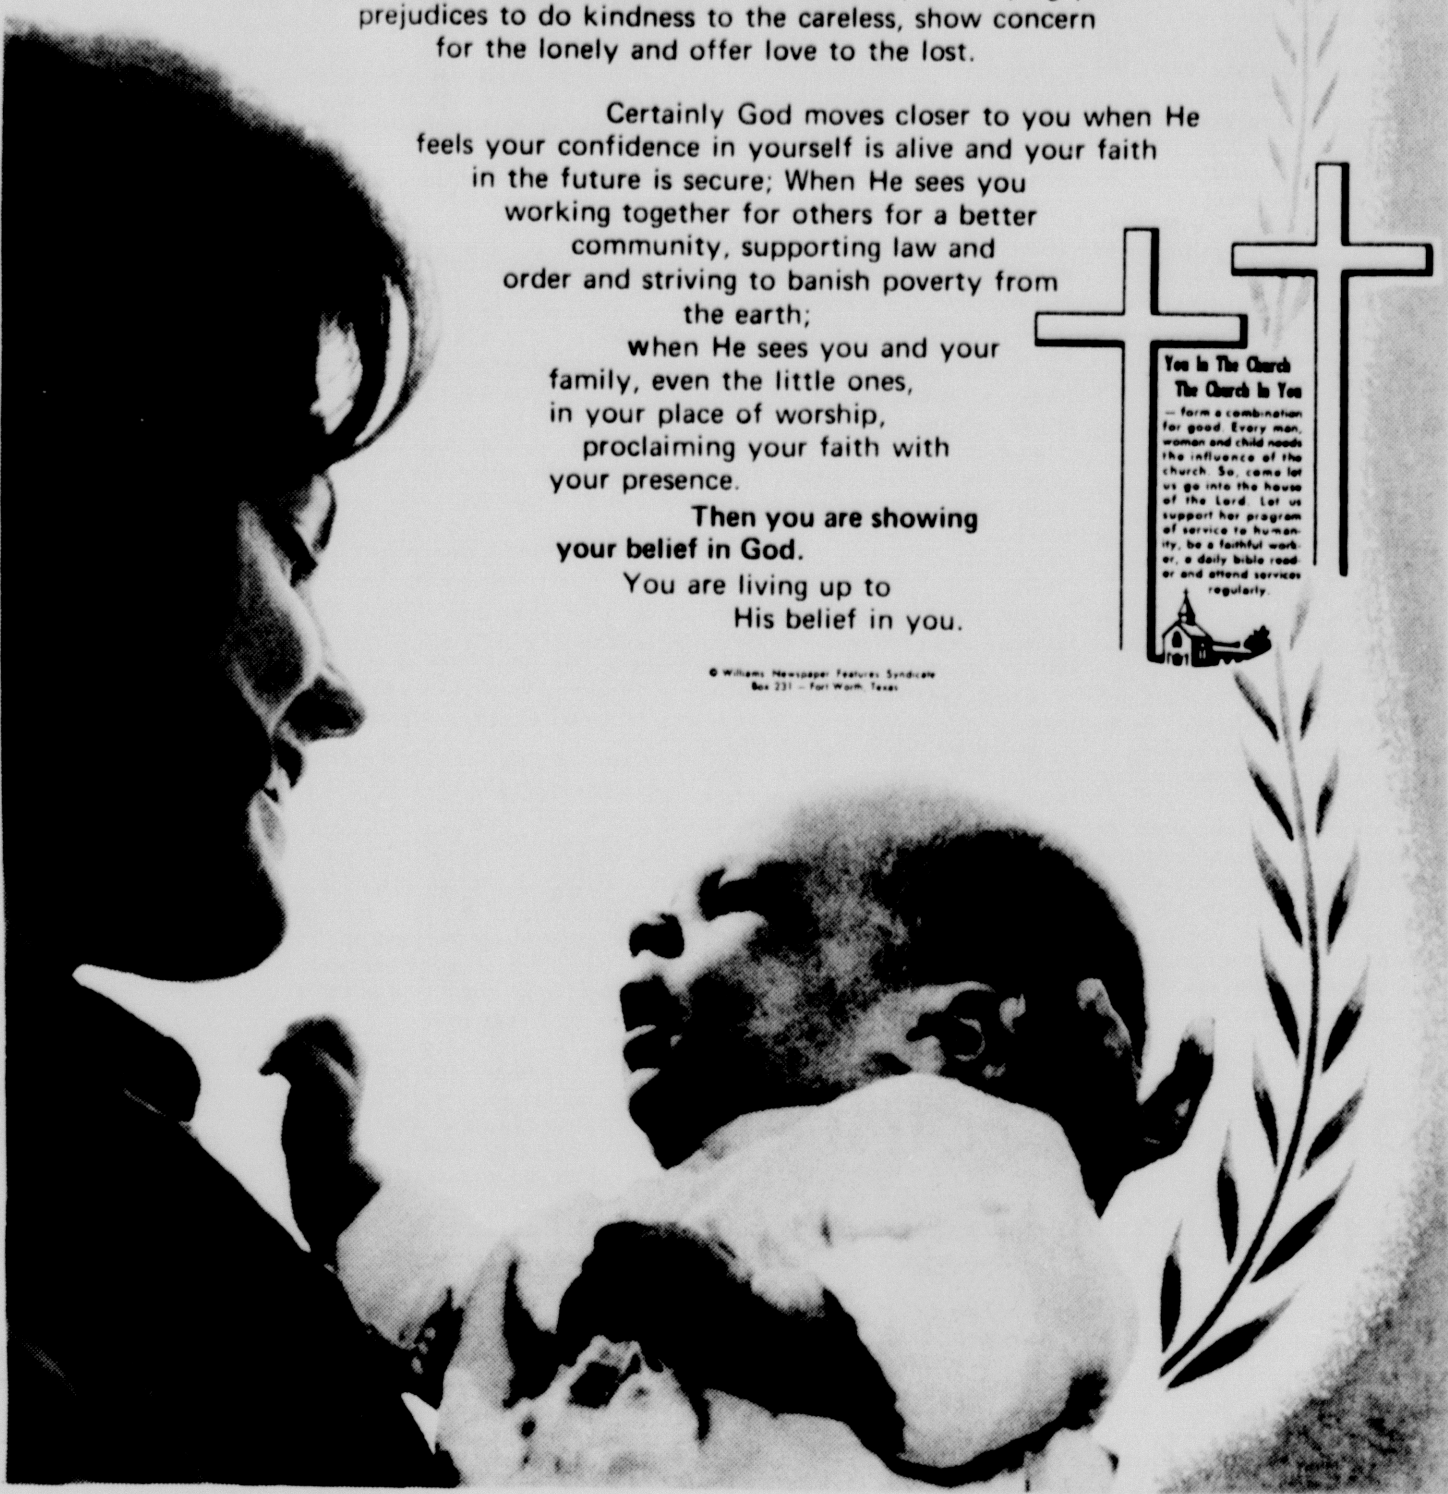

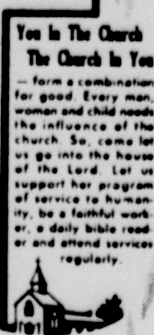

When He asks you to remember that He sent His son to remind you of His love; When He sees you struggling from a sea of cynicism and doubt; When He hears you speak out for right; When He senses your belief in all people regardless of color or creed; When He sees you burying your prejudices to do kindness to the careless, show concern for the lonely and offer love to the lost.

Certainly God moves closer to you when He feels your confidence in yourself is alive and your faith in the future is secure; When He sees you working together for others for a better community, supporting law and order and striving to banish poverty from the earth;

When He sees you and your family, even the little ones, in your place of worship, proclaiming your faith with your presence.

Then you are showing your belief in God.

You are living up to His belief in you.

REV. AND MRS. MICHAEL PATE

Gospel Tabernacle
Holding Revival

The Cameron Gospel Tabernacle is holding revival services this week at 7:30 p.m. each day. The revival will run through Sunday, August 29.

Evangelist is Rev. Michael Pate, and his wife is the song leader.

Rev. H. M. Bowley, pastor of the Cameron Gospel Tabernacle, said the public is invited to attend the services. Anyone needing transportation may call 697-3930.

Zander Reunion

The 22nd Zander Family Reunion will be held on September 5 at Marak Hall. There will be a basket lunch as usual. Everyone should bring enough food for their family.

Rogers Free
Lunch Policy
Announced

The Rogers Independent School District has announced a free and reduced lunch policy for Rogers school children unable to pay the full price.

Local school officials have adopted a family size and income scale to assist them in determining eligibility.

Families falling within the scales or those suffering from unusual circumstances or hardships are urged to apply for free or reduced price lunches for their children.

They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school.

Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Under the provisions of the policy the building principals will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the local official he may make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision.

Supt. Wayne Cornelius has been designated the hearing official. The policy also provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against any student unable to pay the full cost of a lunch.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the office of the Rogers School District where it may be reviewed by any interested patron.

Students Now Applying For Alcoa Scholarships

Sons and daughters of Alcoans living all over Central Texas have begun applying for the two $3,000 Alcoa Foundation college scholarships, payable over a four-year period, that are awarded each year at Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works.

Applications are now available through the plant and must be filled out by the student and given to the respective high school principal before September 13.

A son or daughter of a Rockdale Alcoan may apply for one of the two scholarships if he or she expects to graduate from high school in 1972, and if the Alcoa parent has continuous service with Alcoa dating back to January 1, 1967.

Candidates must be in the upper half of their graduating class or have a C plus average or better at the time of application.

For the first time, eligibility to participate has been extended to step-children who are living with the Alcoa parent, whether or not they have been legally adopted.

Once the applications are turned over to high school principals, they will fill out additional forms and forward them to the chairman of the Scholarship Selection Board by September 20.

On November 6, all candidates must take the college entrance examination. And, once these scores are returned, the Selection Board will review the candidates and announce the winners in the spring of 1972.

The Alcoa Foundation College Scholarship Selection Board, who will select Rockdale Works' two scholarship winners, is made up of the following Central Texas school administrators: D. R. Dodson, Cameron Superintendent of Schools; Jack Paulds, Caldwell Superintendent of Schools; A. P. Kleinschmidt, Lexington Superintendent of Schools; A. K. McCown, Thrall Superintendent of Schools; J. M. Moorman, Rockdale Superintendent of Schools; R. L. Porter, Milano Superintendent of Schools; B. C. Sims, Thorndale Superintendent of Schools; and Joe Scrivner, Taylor Superintendent of Schools.

Small Community Can Find Doctor

CHICAGO

Here's a tip for the rural community that doesn't have a physician and wants one: "Look for an MD who grew up in a small community, perhaps even in the same part of the country," suggests the current AMA UPDATE (July/August).

Some 132 rural counties in 26 states are presently without a non-federal physician.

"Paradoxically, most MD's who live and practice in rural areas enjoy their work," says Dr. Bond L. Bible, secretary of AMA's Council on Rural Health. "Once he has established his practice there, a doctor isn't likely to leave."

Nearly half the physicians polled in a Council survey who were practicing in towns smaller than 2500 said they were brought up in a small town, Dr. Bible says.

AMA is helping small communities solve their medical care problems in several ways. The Association's Physicians' Placement Service helps communities find a doctor, and vice versa.

Particularly in sparsely-populated areas, "we urge groups of communities to establish a centrally-located medical center with a group practice, together with mobile health units or satellite health stations," Dr. Bible says. "Thanks to today's automobiles and roadways, a doctor may be 15 or 20 miles away in distance, but only minutes away in time."

In one 4000 - square - mile area of Washington State, with a population of five persons per square mile, AMA is supporting a pilot project to extend the capability of medical services in such areas.

"It's a team approach, basically, in which the area's eight doctors coordinate their own efforts, and those of physician's assistants (called Medex), nurse practitioners, social workers and community health people," Dr. Bible explains.

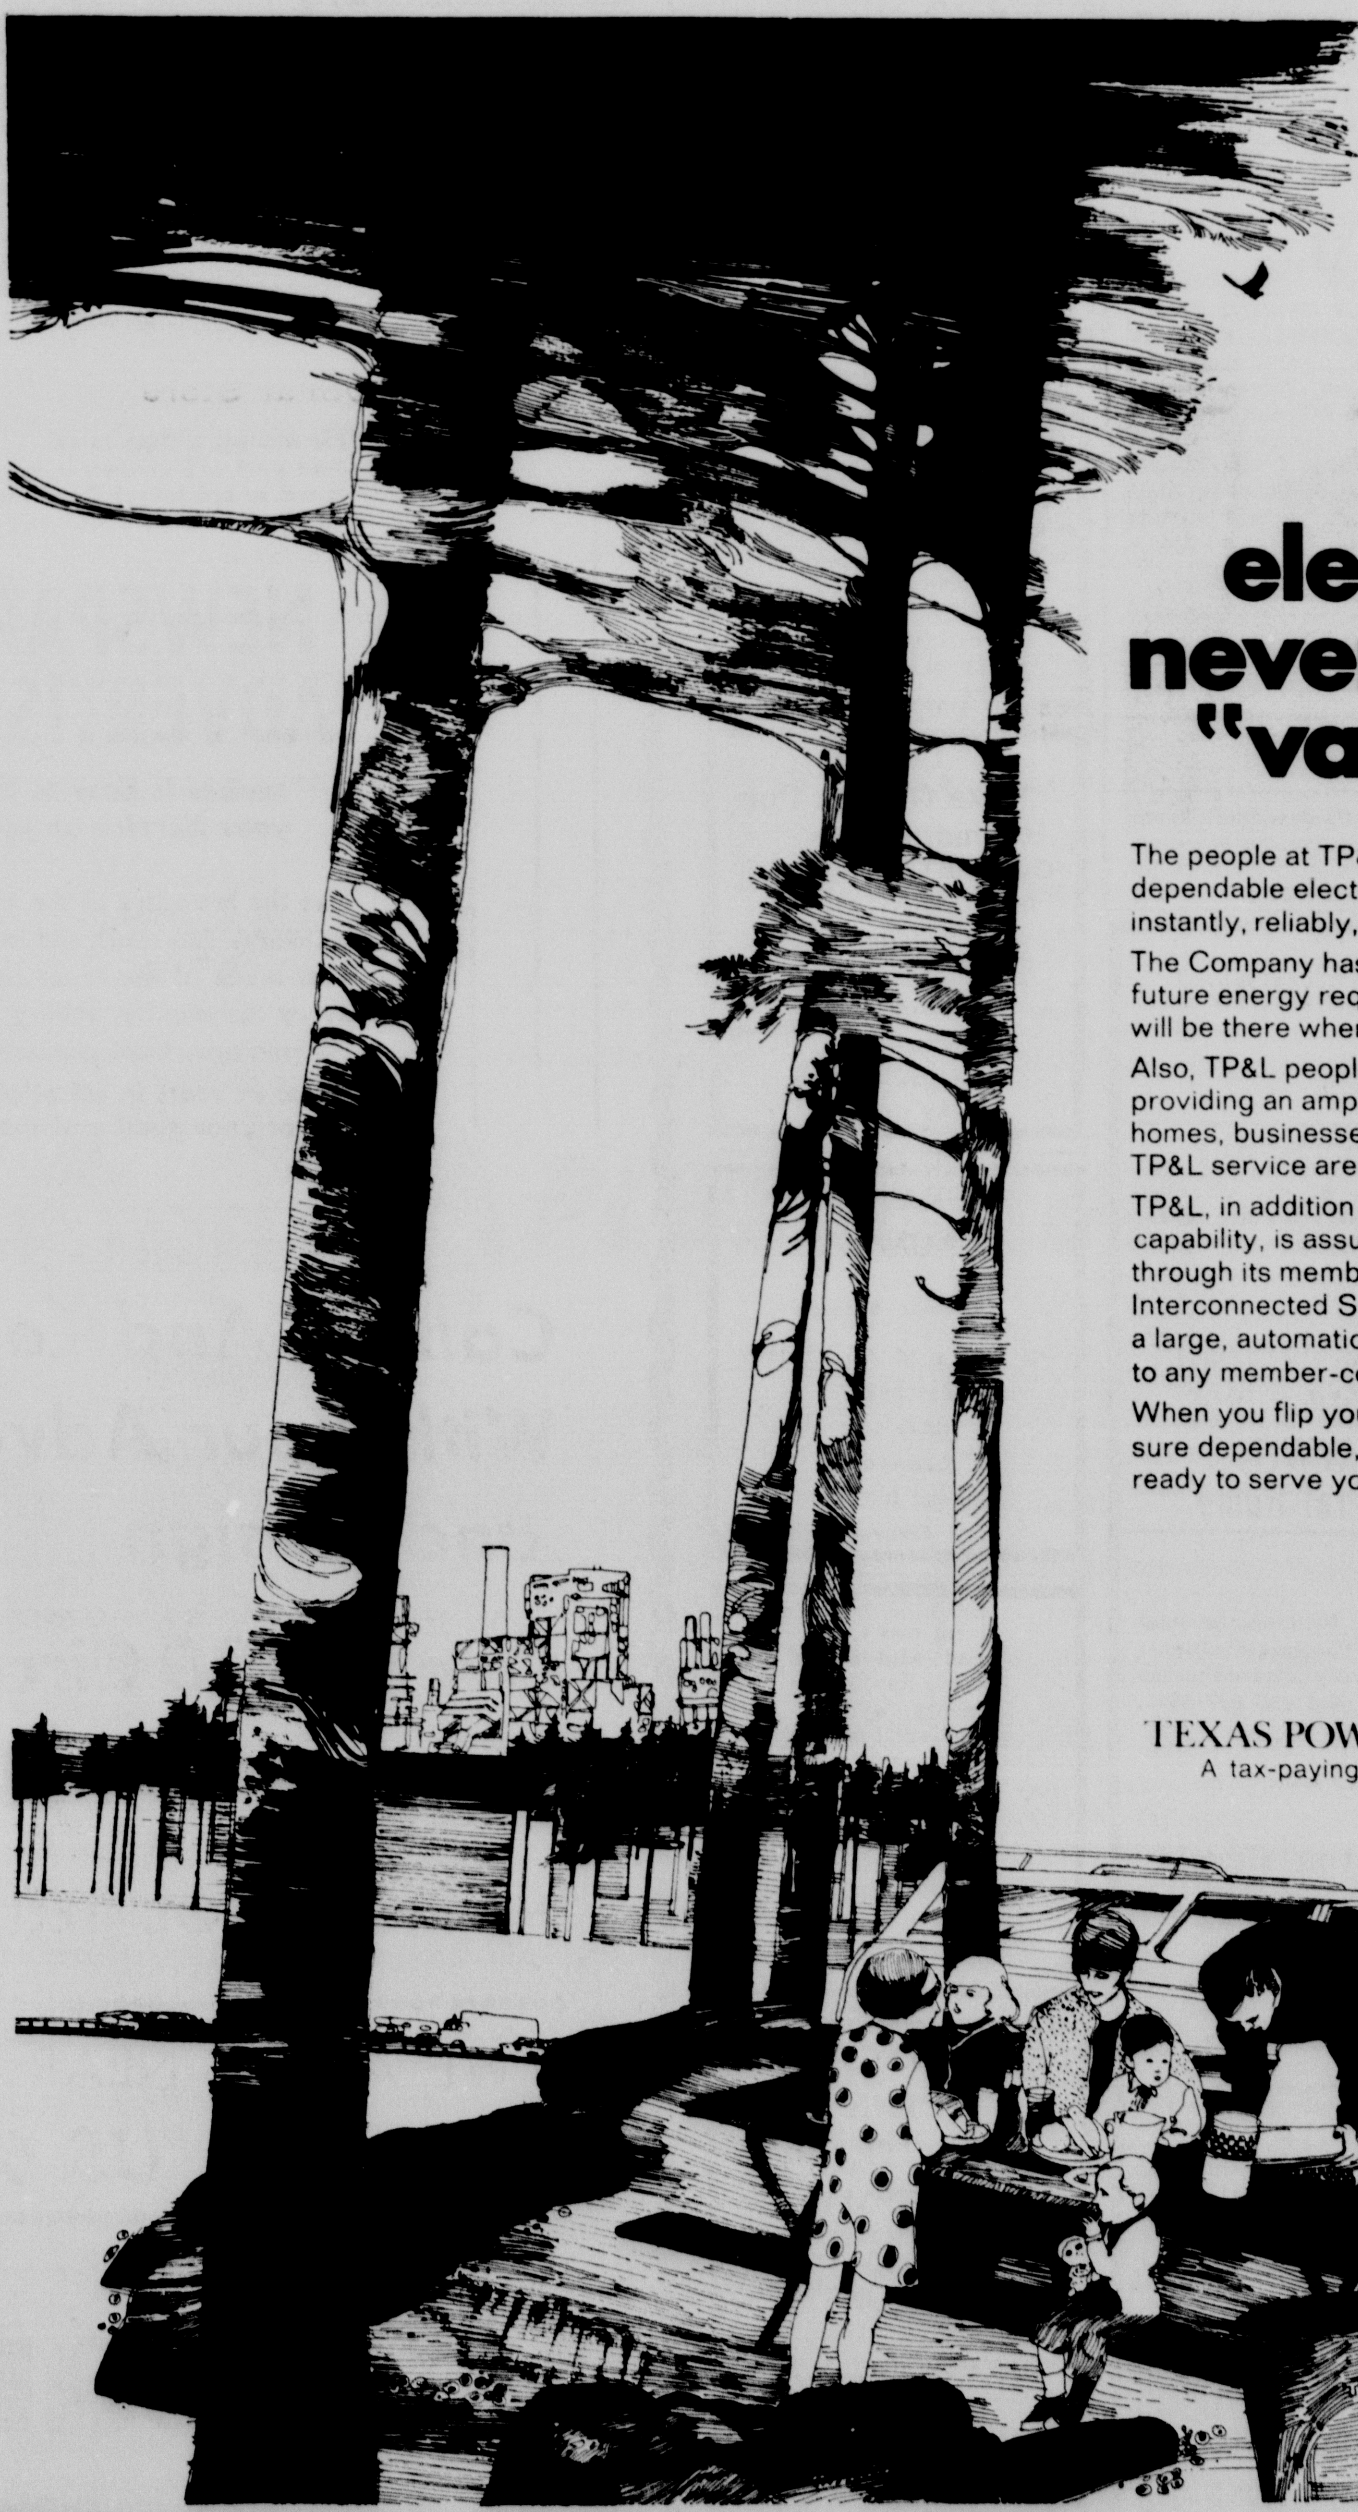

(Medex are former medical corpsmen, returned from the armed forces, who have been re-trained to serve as physician's assistants.)

MOURNING DOVE—WHITE-WINGED DOVE

Hunting Regulations-1971

DAILY BAG LIMITS

MOURNING DOVES
Daily Bag Limit-10. Possession Limit-20

WHITE-WINGED DOVES
Daily Bag Limit-10. Possession Limit-20

NOTE: Bag limits of both white-winged and mourning doves may be taken during the open white-winged season.

SHOOTING HOURS:

● Mourning and White-winged Doves:
12 noon to sunset.

SPECIAL NOTES:

- No hunting permitted in game refuges, state and federal parks, game reserves, within corporate city limits or from public roads or road rights of way.
- The retention of one fully-feathered wing on dressed doves is required in those counties having a white-winged dove season when both mourning and white-winged doves may be taken. This requirement also applies when doves are imported from Mexico or any foreign country.
- Shotguns must be plugged permanently to three-shell capacity and may not be larger than ten gauge. Hunting doves with rifles prohibited.
- Area closed south and west of a line extending along U.S. Highway 83 from the Starr-Zapata County line to Mission, and from Mission to the north city limits of Hidalgo via FM 1016 and FM 1926 during the concurrent white-winged and mourning dove season.
- In all counties under regulatory responsibility of the Parks and Wildlife Commission, no hunting is permitted on railroad right-of-ways (except in Uvalde County) and in State owned river beds.
- A white-winged Dove Stamp for a $3.00 fee is required of all persons who hunt white-winged doves. This stamp is required in addition to the valid hunting license.

OPEN SEASONS

MOURNING DOVES: North Zone-September 1 to October 30
South Zone-September 25 to November 23, except in those counties having white-winged dove season where it will be September 4 & 5, September 11 & 12 and September 25 to November 19.

WHITE-WINGED DOVES: Shaded Zone-September 4 & 5 and September 11 & 12

NOTE: Both mourning and white-winged doves may be taken during the open white-winged dove season.

Unplugged Guns

Illegal For Doves

Those dove hunters busily unplugging their shotguns for the dove season had better take another look at the law, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

When the Parks and Wildlife Commission removed the three-shell limit on shotguns, they did it only for non-migratory birds such as quail and turkey.

Migratory birds, and these include both mourning and white-winged doves, can be legally hunted with shotguns only if the shotguns are permanently plugged to hold three shells. Other migratory birds in Texas are ducks, geese, brant, coots, rails, gallinules, jacksnipe, woodcock and sandhill cranes.

"We've had some reports that dove hunters are happily anticipating the coming dove season because they can do more shooting with unplugged guns," said James U. Cross, executive director of the department.

"These hunters have obviously misinterpreted the law," he said.

IRS Office Will Answer Questions About Price Freeze

The Internal Revenue Service will operate local service and compliance centers, under the President's wage-price freeze, in nine offices in southern Texas, R. L. Phinney, IRS District Director, said today.

Under policy direction of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, Internal Revenue Service offices in the Austin District will answer public inquiries, accept complaints, and investigate alleged violations of the freeze. "We are adding telephones, mobilizing employees, and have already started accepting calls," Phinney said.

Phinney stated the IRS will make every effort to be helpful, but will need to refer questions about the new import duty surcharge to the Office of Customs in Houston, unless the question relates to the effect of the surcharge on wages, rents or the price freeze.

Motorcycle Champion Is Just Interested In Money

By Nicholas Parsons
Reuter Correspondent

MONZA, Italy

Giacomo Agostini is one of the fastest men on wheels in the world, but the motorcycle racing ace says bluntly he's in the sport just for the money.

In August, Agostini clinched the world 500 cc. and 350 cc. titles to become, at age 29, the first man to win 10 world championships.

But Agostini is more interested in the money than the glory.

"I do nothing for nothing. The word 'gratis' does not exist in my vocabulary." He says, while explaining that his contract with a motorcycle company brings him $80,000 a year.

He gets another $65,000 for allowing an Italian gas company to use his name in advertising.

Before each race Agostini can be seen either walking slowly round the track, his eyes glued to the track, studying every contour, every irregularity, or else riding round at night, when the headlights show up the shape of the surface.

"For me winning is a matter of the head. I think a lot, I reflect continually: it's a kind of obsession."

The obsession has brought him riches beyond the dreams of most Italians, and the adulation of thousands. But he says "I'm an ordinary guy, like everybody else."

With the money his success has brought he drives a Ferrari, lives in a penthouse and invests his money in property. The only love he does not share with his fans strangely enough, is his passion for motorcycles.

"It's quite natural that they should like them more than cars," he says.

"A car drives you, but it is you who drive a motorcycle. The car makes you passive. The motorcycle gives you the feeling of dominating the machine, of

Hunting Guides Now Available

Bundles of the new "Texas Hunting Guide, 1971-72" are now being shipped and will be available to hunters by the end of August at Texas Parks and Wildlife Department offices and license agents across the state.

The accordion-fold publication is printed in black, blue and gold and contains not only summaries of game laws but also five Texas maps which show county-by-county the seasons and bag limits for deer, turkey, javelina, squirrel and the special October archery season.

A one-page sheet detailing the mourning and white-winged dove seasons is also being sent to the department's game management officers and those baithouses, camps, marinas and sporting goods stores where hunting licenses are sold.

Two other supplements to the guide will be available by mid-October, added James U. Cross, executive director. They are guides to quail regulations, which have not yet been adopted by the Parks and Wildlife Commission pending field studies of the bird situation; migratory game bird seasons, and regulations for counties placed under commission regulatory authority by acts of the 62nd Legislature.

WINNING STREAK

The University of Oklahoma football team, the Sooners, holds the record for the longest winning streak in modern collegiate annals -- no defeats in 47 games, National Geographic says.

Yoemen Line Up For '71

Eleven seniors are on a 26-man Yoeman varsity squad running through one-a-day drills at Yoe Field.

Two-year lettermen Sam Knight, Jim Bailey and David Fritz lead the 1971 Yoe edition in experience. Bailey and Knight are tri-captains along with senior Prentiss McGoldrick.

Fourteen youngsters thus far are suited out for the B-team, part of which will be beefed up with less experienced Yoemen during the B-team season, according to Hal Stanislaw, head coach.

Stanislaw also counts 20 freshmen suited out, some of whom might play some B-team games. The varsity roster:

SENIORS -- quarterback Richard Cummings, halfback Jim Bailey, fullback Sam Knight, end Jack Kirk, end Lonnie Scott, tackle David Fritz, tackle Jackie Raymond, tackle Donnie Tucker, tackle William Whiteside, guard Prentiss McGoldrick and safety Joe Vaculin.

SOPHOMORES -- halfback George Whiteside, halfback David

Hollas, fullback Virgil Jones, guard Paul Vaculin.

The junior varsity:

Guard Donald Flemming, ends Tom and Joe Pitts, tackles Daniel Richardson, Mike Young and Ricky Williams, guard Jim Delony, center Ricky Sapp, backs Willie Levan, Sam Ellison, Craig Friemel, Allen Coleman, David Wilson, Charles Watson.

The freshmen: Quarterbacks Gene Kopriva and Mark Harwell; halfbacks Gary Trdy, J. D. Bailey, Willy Pinkston; fullback Willie Bell; centers Ricky Hollas, Gary Hornung and Ladis Slavik; guards Bruce Zarosky and Bobby Zavodny; tackles Mike Mueck, Harry Brooks, Richard Scott and Ricky Kelly; ends Jeff Smitherman, Randy Sapp, Lee Dodd, Charley Daniel and Obrey Henry.

Breakfast Need Not Be Conventional

COLLEGE STATION      tive teenage girl in your home      conventional breakfast?
Do you have a normally ac-      -one who doesn't like to eat a      She could choose to eat a sandwich for breakfast, according to Frances Reasonover, Extension foods and nutrition specialist at Texas A&M University.

Why not? Miss Reasonover says the important point is that you eat as you like, as long as the foods you choose for the entire day include specified amounts from the basic four food groups, and as long as you meet calorie needs.
She explains that a day's eating might start like this: a cheese sandwich for breakfast along with a banana and a glass of milk.

If that doesn't appeal, you may want to begin the day with spaghetti, chili, baked beans or deviled eggs.
For a normally active girl of average height -- 5 feet 2 inches -- weighing 117 pounds, multiply 117 by 20 calories and you find that she needs approximately 2,300 to 2,400 calories each day.

Her food intake should include
4 cups of milk or the equivalent;

4 servings of fruits and vegetables, making sure to include those rich in vitamins A and C; 4 or more servings from the bread-cereal group; and 2 servings from the meat group.
